Minnesota Orchestra violinist Sarah Grimes gave a hands-on tutorial to a student in Cape Town during the Orchestra’s South Africa tour—the capstone of a season that connected the Orchestra to communities near and far. Another of the season’s highlight offerings was a Tchaikovsky Marathon at which Principal Cello Anthony Ross was one of several soloists.

President and CEO

In an address on his 90th birthday, Nobel Peace Prize-winning leader Nelson Mandela passed the flame to future generations by saying, “It is in your hands to make of our world a better one for all…” As we prepared to celebrate Mandela’s centenary last July, we took those words to heart. It was clear what the Minnesota Orchestra could do to make our world a little better: bring people together through music.

Uniting people through shared musical experiences was the emphasis of our 2017-18 season, whether at Orchestra Hall, a metro-area high school or on tour in Mankato, the Midwest or South Africa. The Orchestra brought audiences together at our home venue to celebrate the 500th anniversary of the Reformation (with a world premiere), the 100th anniversary of Finnish independence (with Finland’s President) and the 50th anniversary of Minnesota Public Radio (with great memories).

Our Send Me Hope concert united gospel choirs and young bucket drummers with the Orchestra for an emotional, all-in community experience. A Common Chords residency in Mankato matched Orchestra musicians with middle school string students for an unforgettable rehearsal. The International Day of Music that launched our summer festival brought thousands of people together at Orchestra Hall for a 12-hour free musical celebration. And our first full-Orchestra Sensory-Friendly Family Concert enabled families—many with children on the autism spectrum—to hear an orchestral concert together, some for the first time ever.

The idea of sharing good will and uniting people across cultural borders reached a high point in the Orchestra's five-city tour to South Africa in August. Beethoven's Ode to Joy, the ultimate hymn to human unity, took on a new life when the Orchestra played it, flanked by American and South African singers, in Soweto's Regina Mundi Church, epicenter of the anti-apartheid struggle. Music’s ability to touch deep emotions and create a common connection between people was evident both to that live audience in Soweto and to the Minnesota Public Radio broadcast audience listening on the other side of the world.

The momentum that fueled this remarkable season led to strong fiscal results. For the fourth consecutive season the Orchestra ended the year with a balanced budget. Audiences filled the house to 91% capacity, the highest level achieved in five years, and our total earned revenue increased over the prior year by $1.5 million. The Orchestra’s number of unique donors increased more than a thousand to nearly 8,500 and total contributions reached an impressive $22.4 million.

Reflecting on the achievements of the 2017-18 season, which ran from September to August, we salute now-retired President and CEO Kevin Smith for expertly steering the organization through Fiscal 2018—and the last four seasons. Most of all, we offer thanks to you, our generous community, for your ongoing commitment to the Minnesota Orchestra and to the musical experiences, here and around the globe, that bring us so gloriously together.

“The Minnesota Orchestra from America performed its way into the annals of South African history—and the hearts of a packed Cape Town City Hall audience—on Friday night, at the start of its first-ever 12-day tour of five South African cities.”
—Raphael Wolf, Cape Times, South Africa, August 14, 2018
“MUSIC IS A GREAT BLESSING”

So said the late South African President Nelson Mandela, whose life and legacy the Minnesota Orchestra honored in a “Music for Mandela” Sommerfest and five-city tour of South Africa—the first ever by a professional U.S. orchestra. A standout Sommerfest concert led by Music Director Osmo Vänskä celebrated Mandela’s centennial as area church choirs, visiting South African singers and the Minnesota Chorale joined the Orchestra to perform South African songs (left); Mandela’s daughter Dr. Makaziwe Mandela (below far left) spoke movingly from the stage. In Minneapolis and South Africa, soprano Goitsemang Lehobye (below middle left) sang Mandela’s words in Harmonia Ubuntu by Bongani Ndodana-Breen, a work commissioned for the tour by Classical Movements. Orchestra members forged ties with local audiences and musicians throughout the tour, including a Side-by-Side rehearsal with the South African National Youth Orchestra (below left), and the Gauteng Choristers and Minnesota Chorale joined two concerts. The tour capped Kevin Smith’s four-year tenure as President and CEO; he and his successor, Michelle Miller Burns, applauded musicians in Cape Town (below).

MANY HAPPY RETURNS

The season also saw the Orchestra make much-anticipated return visits to several locales. In August Osmo Vänskä conducted the ensemble, to critical and audience acclaim, in a program of American music at London’s prestigious BBC Proms, where it last played in 2010 (right). A January Midwest tour brought the Orchestra and Vänskä to Chicago’s Symphony Center (below right) for the first time in a half-century; the Orchestra also visited and performed at the University of Illinois and Indiana University, where horn player Herbert Winslow was among many who worked with music students (above far right). Mankato, Minnesota, was the latest community to host the Orchestra for a Common Chords residency, strengthening ties to a city the ensemble first visited in 1908; there Principal Second Violin Peter McGuire (far right), a Mankato native, starred in Mozart’s Fifth Violin Concerto under the baton of Assistant Conductor Akiko Fujimoto.
AN ORCHESTRA FOR ALL

In keeping with its mission to enrich, inspire and serve our entire community, the Orchestra emphasized greater inclusivity through its first full-Orchestra Sensory-Friendly Family Concert, which welcomed audiences of all ages and abilities to Orchestra Hall, including individuals on the autism spectrum. Lobby activities deepened audience connections with musicians such as Assistant Concertmaster Rui Du (below middle). Building on the success of a 2016 “Spirit of the Season” concert in north Minneapolis, the Orchestra presented a “Send Me Hope” program that brought many of the same guest performers and audiences to Orchestra Hall, who stayed after to mingle with musicians (below left). Performances in the community included the Orchestra’s first visit to The Commons in downtown Minneapolis (right), Symphonic Adventures concerts at high schools including Armstrong High School in Plymouth (below far right), Symphony for the Cities outdoor performances and Pint of Music brewpub chamber concerts.

THE COMMUNITY CONNECTION

The Orchestra shared the stage with top-notch guest artists from the Minnesota community, including church choirs at “Send Me Hope” (left), led by Associate Conductor Roderick Cox; sibling quintet The Steeles, who performed alongside Orchestra trumpeter Charles Lazarus, also under Cox’s baton (below left); local singer-actors (right) who starred in a new “Home for the Holidays” program conducted by Principal Conductor of Live at Orchestra Hall Sarah Hicks, created and directed by Peter Rothstein and written by Kevin Kling; and genre-crossing multimedia collective Cloud Cult in its Orchestra debut, with Hicks again on the podium. A free 12-hour International Day of Music in July showcased 19 ensembles, among them Heart & Soul Drum Academy (right), on three stages in and around Orchestra Hall.
MUSICIANS IN THE SPOTLIGHT

ARTISTS AND ANNIVERSARIES APLENTY

The season’s Featured Artist, violinist James Ehnes (left), was among many guest artists at the Hall; others included violinist Joshua Bell, pianists André Watts and Inon Barnatan, organist Cameron Carpenter (below middle left), conductor Nathalie Stutzmann (below middle right) and, on the Live at Orchestra Hall series, singers Ben Folds, Audra McDonald and Leslie Odom, Jr. Several major anniversaries were marked, including the 50th year of Minnesota Public Radio; Finland’s centennial, about which Finnish President Sauli Niinistö and Orchestra Board Chair Marilyn Carlson Nelson spoke from the stage (below far left); and 500 years since the dawn of the Protestant Reformation, commemorated with the premiere of RE-FORMATION by Sebastian Currier, who accepted applause alongside Osmo Vänskä and Minnesota Chorale Artistic Director Kathy Saltzman Romey (below). The Orchestra's Composer Institute, directed by Kevin Puts and co-presented with the American Composers Forum, turned 15 years old.

“[Currier’s] work, in its shift from sacred to secular, from brimming confidence to the slimmest thread of hope, is harrowingly effective.”

A FOUNDATION OF EDUCATION

Young People’s (YP) Concerts, led for the first year by Assistant Conductor Akiko Fujimoto (right), reached more than 35,000 students at Orchestra Hall, plus many worldwide through the second-ever YP Concert video webcast. The Orchestra worked alongside students from the Minnesota All-State Orchestra at a Side-by-Side Rehearsal (below right). Key volunteer organizations also served students: YPSCA provided volunteer ushers and funding for select schools’ tickets and busing, while FRIENDS of the Minnesota Orchestra offered Kinder Konzerts and ACCENT meet-a-musician events for adults, among other initiatives. Clarinetist Bixby Kennedy, pianist Kyle Orth and cellist Nygel Witherspoon (far right), past winners of YPSCA and FRIENDS competitions, each performed with the Orchestra. OH+ (Orchestra Hall Plus) activities, tailored to each concert, included informative lobby displays (above far right), partnerships with other arts organizations, and concert previews, many hosted by Phillip Gainsley.

MAHLER, MOVIES AND MORE

The Orchestra’s multi-season project to perform and record Mahler symphonies continued under Osmo Vänskä’s direction (left). The series’ second album, Mahler’s Sixth, was released to critical praise, and the Fifth Symphony disc earned a Grammy nomination. Audiences reveled in the Orchestra’s Movies and Music concerts, including a program of Disney’s The Little Mermaid led by Sarah Hicks (above right). The Target Atrium’s intimate setting was ideal for jazz performances and chamber concerts, including one with horn player Bruce Hudson and Co-Principal Bassoon Mark Kelley (above). In the online realm, the Orchestra’s popular features included one-day “Instagram takeovers” and videos of the bassoon section describing favorite musical passages, while audiences in turn shared their concert memories via social media.

“No other American orchestra comes close to equaling the Minnesota Orchestra’s achievement as a recording powerhouse over the past quarter-century.”

FINANCIAL REPORT 2017-18
A Letter from the Treasurer

I am pleased to report that, for the fourth consecutive year, the Minnesota Orchestra achieved a balanced operating result, concluding Fiscal 2018 with a net operating surplus of $65,000. The balanced result is the most visible sign that, two years into the Orchestra's Minnesota Model Strategic Plan (2017-2020), the organization is tracking on target with a central goal of that plan: maintaining a balanced budget by growing earned and contributed revenues.

Total revenue, gains and other support for Fiscal 2018 totaled $36.8 million, a $4 million increase over the prior year, due to growth in both earned and contributed revenues. Total earned revenue reached $12 million—surpassing our budget expectations—compared to $10.5 million in the prior year. The increase is attributable to growth in both ticket sales income and income from rental opportunities and food, beverage and concession sales; rental sales were fueled by particularly strong revenue during the Super Bowl. In a very positive sign, total capacity for all concerts reached a five-year high at 91 percent, up four percentage points from FY2017.

Fundraising remains critically important in maintaining our annual balanced operating results. In Fiscal 2018 total contributions, including the annual Guaranty Fund, Symphony Ball, Oakleaf Trust distributions and major gifts, reached an impressive $22.4 million, an increase of $4 million over the prior year. It's important to note that the increase was due in part to a special, one-time gift to support the Orchestra's historic tour to South Africa and London's BBC Proms. Most significantly for the future, our total number of contributors grew by over 1,000, now numbering nearly 8,500 donors.

The organization's total invested assets grew by three percent over the prior year to $134 million. Total expenses for 2017-18 rose from $32.6 million to $36.7 million in FY2018. The increase was due to a few factors, including contractually-planned compensation increases and one-time expenses relating to the South Africa tour that were offset by increased fundraising.

As the Orchestra enters Fiscal 2019, we continue to work toward achieving the central tenets of the Strategic Plan, so that we can ensure the organization's many artistic achievements are undergirded by solid financials. This fiscal plan has always hinged on the extraordinary support of our devoted donors and concertgoers. In a very real way, we owe the success of the 2017-18 season to you, our remarkable (and growing) circle of supporters. Thank you.

A LETTER FROM THE GUARANTY FUND CHAIR

On behalf of the Minnesota Orchestra’s board, staff and musicians, I would like to thank the 8,487 donors who made our 2017-18 season of music performance, programming and engagement such a spectacular success. We are deeply grateful for and inspired by our generous community of donors. Through your support, the Orchestra performed 152 concerts, featured 67 outstanding guest soloists and conductors and more than 20 guest ensembles, and achieved a balanced budget for the fourth consecutive year.

Contributions from individuals, businesses, foundations and public grants totaled $22.4 million in the 2017-18 fiscal year, and the Orchestra’s donor base grew by an impressive 13.5%. An incredibly generous couple made a major gift to support our triumphant return to the BBC Proms in London, and they, along with several other individuals and a consortium of businesses, provided major funding for the Music for Mandela project. This historic tour, and the Mandela-inspired Sommerfest that preceded it, demonstrate music’s remarkable ability to connect and inspire. It is astonishing and indeed profoundly moving to see what can be accomplished when community leaders come together to make large and innovative projects like this possible.

Thanks to the support of our dedicated Guaranty Fund donors, the 2017-18 season was a remarkable one of deep and broad engagement. Residents from every county in Minnesota (87 in total) attended a performance at Orchestra Hall, and 25,000 people of all ages delighted in hearing the Orchestra perform free outdoor concerts across the Twin Cities metro area. More than 35,000 students from 292 schools across Minnesota and Wisconsin experienced the magic of a Minnesota Orchestra Young People’s Concert, and hundreds of middle and high school music students thrilled at having the full Orchestra perform in their very own high school auditoriums. And over the course of the year, more than two million people listened to live and rebroadcast Minnesota Orchestra concerts on Classical MPR, including the Orchestra’s performances at the BBC Proms and at Regina Mundi Church in Soweto, South Africa.

We are deeply grateful to all our donors. Your financial investment ensures that your world-renowned Minnesota Orchestra continues to reach its extraordinary artistic potential, and to enrich, inspire and serve our community with outstanding musical experiences year-round. Thank you!

With gratitude,

Joseph T. Green
Guaranty Fund Chair
